

Principal's Sharing

Dear Parents and Students,

'Good morning, Principal!' said by many active students while I was walking upstairs at the School's doorsteps on the first day of school. I smiled at them and made some shy students run back to their classrooms while they were greeting me. Their happy faces for coming back to school are so refreshing to me.

The School was still highly busy during the long summer vacation. There were almost students at school every day as senior students attended their tutorials while junior students enjoyed summer activities. I will emphasize students' performance in academic study and extra-curricular activities from this year onwards. The senior will sit re-exams while the junior will attend tutorials if they cannot fulfill the minimum requirements of their exams. Further tutorials will also be provided after the school term commences. Such a hectic schedule serves merely the purpose of fully grasping every single learning opportunity on campus. One of our supporters outside school has volunteered to teach our students guitar free of charge. The guitarist mentioned to me that our students enjoyed playing guitar a lot. Music is indeed a very good way to relax and develop one's personality.

I visited Beijing Normal University and Da Tong Si Shu, a tertiary institute in Shenzhen, for seeking places through principal's nomination and promoting Confucianism. The School is also looking into collaboration opportunities with two organizations outside school. Despite the preliminary stage of our collaboration, the School will be offered further resources to promote Confucianism and Chinese culture in diversified ways. Apart from that, I met principals from different districts to introduce the ongoing development of the School. Our determination and devotion to bi-literacy and tri-lingulism, further development of extra-curricular activities, and boosting the School's popularity and reputation will definitely be a success. All these targets are highly well-planned. For instance, the School has employed native English speakers to engage in teaching and also activities inside and outside school. In order to increase the quantity and improve the quality of our students, I have met organizations from districts in Kowloon to promote the School and seek collaboration opportunities.

Prominent positive outcomes have been shown in further developing the School's curriculum and extra-curricular activities. Mr. McRobbie, the Chief Executive Officer of the Hong Kong Rugby Football Union, came to our School to promote rugby to our students during the briefing session of extra-curricular activities. Other eye-opening and self-discovering activities to be held include district-based schemes and activities organized by The Women's Foundation. I hereby express my heartfelt thanks to Ms. Wong Siu Yik the Vice-Principal, Mr. Wong Yuk Fan and Ms. Mok Yuk Ling for their unconditional devotion to our students.

Moreover, I am very excited as our students have been invited to join the Flag Raising Ceremony on the National Day. This shows that the performance of our students has been recognized by the schools and residents in our community. I strongly believe that all of our students bear the outstanding nature of being Chinese. I would like to thank the graduation cohort for giving me little gifts and thank you cards, and those who have been offered a bachelor degree for bowing and saying 'thank you' to me outside my room. I don't know what else I can do except wishing you all a prosperous future.

In the new year, let's try our best together!
